Cutting Edge Corporate Developments on board with Velox Group

Director of Velox Group (NZ) Ltd, Georgina Torrington is excited to announce today the latest addition to the stable of clients represented with Cutting Edge Corporate Development confirming it's on board.

Cutting Edge Corporate Development is a specialised team development organisation based out of Matakana. The base features a purpose built army style confidence course destined to challenge even the most intrepid of corporate teams. There are also plenty of transportable team development options for those needing service nationwide.

In addition to the confidence course Cutting Edge Corporate Development also offer a range of 'out of the box' solutions which provide fun, team development and can be tailored to suit the particular outcomes and objectives of the client. By all means they will all have fun, says Max Carpenter owner operator of Cutting Edge Corporate Development, but while you're having fun why not solve an organisational issue, build communication, develop team unity, or discover hidden leadership skills.

Cutting Edge Corporate Development are the New Zealand licensee for Sabre Corporate Development a recognised global name in the team development arena so can offer the fleet of activities, events and concepts in Sabre's portfolio. In addition to this with the many years of experience within the New Zealand Armed Forces and working with youth development boot camps throughout the year provides the perfect stage to develop a plethora of additional ideas and Carpenter is keen to work with corporate clients to create be-spoke team development activities.
